Denver Metro Chamber of Commerce Selects BroadbandVideo as Streaming Video Provider

Video enhances relocation directory, stimulating interest in the Mile High City

Englewood, CO – November 14, 2002 – BroadbandVideo, a full service streaming media provider, was selected by the Denver Metro Chamber of Commerce to provide online video capabilities within the relocation directory at their Web site, www.denverchamber.org.

The video showcases the beautiful features and attractions of Denver and surrounding areas. Each segment highlights a particular area of interest for the viewer.

“The Denver Metro Chamber web site contains a vast amount of information for those interested in our city,” said Chris Power Bain, Communications Director, Denver Metro Chamber of Commerce. “The addition of video which highlights the city from weather and neighborhoods to business resources and opportunities, provides individuals and businesses considering a move, the ability to experience Denver before they get here.”

BroadbandVideo has also partnered with Weblink International, the developer of the Denver Metro Chamber site and the nation’s #1 Chamber Internet Service, to offer streaming media services to their more than 250 Chamber customers across the US.

“WebLink is proud to be able to offer these services to chambers and organizations of all sizes,” said WebLink International President and CEO John “DJ” Muller. “Together we can deliver streaming video at a quality our clients expect at a price they can afford. This will become an important tool for every membership organization we serve.”
